
RE: 7 Recommendations about June Klein

Sir Ken Olisa – Chair Restoration Partners, Chair Institute of Directors, Director Thomson Reuters, Lord-Lieutenant London, November 20, 2017, Ken managed June directly

I have known and worked with June on and off over 20 years. During that time, she has maintained her indomitable energy and enthusiasm for business and innovation. It seems a ridiculous thing to say in 2017 but when June and I met, she was one of only a handful of women with Financial Services and Technology sector skills. Back then, the few women in each sector had little or no knowledge of anything outside their silo.

Always comfortable being unique, June's personal drive led to her becoming a pioneer in the business application of technologies and to our more recent joint activities assisting disruptive entrepreneurs to scale up their businesses. June's out of the box thinking (and I'm toning down her creativity!) and impressive Rolodex makes her a go-to asset for organisations across the commercial spectrum.

June is a great businessperson and role model for women of all walks of life.

John Shackleton – Chair SilkRoad (HR software), former Chair Opentext ($1billion)

I worked with Ms. Klein over a period of four years where we were both Board members of a UK “start-up”. The company’s vision was to become a leader in the emerging market of on-line payments, particularly emphasizing the mobile phone. Ms. Klein had a deep understanding of the technology and the key issues involving the consumers and businesses with which we were dealing. She also had a clear understanding of the strategy needed to grow the company, based on its capabilities and how she felt the market was evolving. While most of the Board were older Englishmen with less technical knowledge, Ms. Klein was able to overcome cultural differences, encourage collaboration and present complex issues in an easy to understand manner... all while tackling significant conflicts between Board members.

I found Ms. Klein to be creative, solution-focused, pragmatic, well organized and reliable. I would recommend her for any Board requiring knowledge of emerging technologies for both consumers and businesses. john.shackleton@silkroad.com

Angelica Cantlon, former EVP Global HR, International Flavors & Fragrances

June Klein is the ultimate thought leader. She is consistently on the cutting edge, thinking about the possibilities and applications to take her work for her clients to the next level. I have always drawn positive energy working with June, reframing my thinking and seeing new ways to problem solve lingering challenges. She is someone you want to work by your side as you move into uncharted waters and uncertain environments. We need more like June Klein in the world of business.

Romy Ribitzky, Marketing Director Velocity Tech Solutions

June is a wealth of information. I first met her while flying to London as part of British Airways' Face of Opportunity contest. We chatted, and it was immediately apparent that she was passionate about helping entrepreneurs even as she was pursuing her own entrepreneurial ventures.

I enlisted her help and guidance several times since that flight and she has always been happy to supply me and my team with her insights and her intelligent commentary.

She is an asset to any company and I full-heartedly recommend her.

Chuck Brooks - Security and Technology Evangelist

June and I worked closely together as Technology Advisor Partners to the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation for two years. It is a special honor for me to recommend her as she exemplifies forward and innovative thinking in emerging tech for both industry and the public sector.

In addition to her specialized work in financial tech, June's is a SME in cybersecurity and she has brought forth several public-private strategic initiatives of note.

June is well known in business circles for her unique consulting bi, it is based around her "TMVi Think-DO™ Tank that collaborates with strategic partners to research, repurpose & manage pilots with scalable outcomes.

Some of her consulting Initiatives include: (1) mobile private secure Network used by participants of 1 day Events; (2) physical IOT cybersafe Audit for Enterprises; (3) IOT standards, process & certification biz by device, network & apps derived from the Marines solution; (4) unexpected Resiliency solutions for high-rise buildings derived from new frequencies and emerging country FinTech grants; (5) scaling TMV cybersecurity dashboard mobile app for real-time social media Cybersecurity information.

In a nutshell, June is an erudite, responsive, kind, and highly professional person to work for both policy and technical endeavors. Please feel free to contact me for any additional references.

Auriol Stevens - CEO Inogesis, Chair ISST Advisory Board Imperial College

In my role as merchant banker and CEO of The Virtual Technology Cluster Group, I have known, selected and worked with June for close to a decade in her roles as Director, Advisor, Consultant, Manager, Strategist, and Investor.

She is "the-go-to-choice" for:

- (1) developing ventures that catapult UK firms into USA markets;
- (2) FinTech CEO representing private equity & hedge funds;
- (3) Boardroom strategist that explains and leverages tech to solve real world problems;
- (4) Integrator of public-private initiatives and entrepreneur - corporate pilots;

Technology & Marketing Ventures, Inc.'s 'Next Cybersecurity Practices' include:

- (1) audits of physical Internet of things, standards for IOT & certification by device, network and app;
- (2) Drone applications that validate insurance claims;
- (3) Corporate Resiliency Solutions derived from using Amazon's FCC new frequency, Google's East Africa internet balloon. Microsoft's underwater data center in the Pacific Ocean.

I love working with June and would have no hesitation recommending her.

British Airways Face of Opportunity LinkedIn Community Manager

June is a 2011 British Airways Face-to-Face winner, a program encouraging small businesses and entrepreneurs to expand their business globally, as well as Guest Chair to the British Airways' Face of Opportunity Marketing Discussion on LinkedIn. June has been an invaluable member of this community, contributing on a range of topics. Her extensive experience as an executive at places like IBM, Citigroup, JP Morgan Chase, Merrill Lynch, and the Federal Reserve is our gain. Currently, June is flexing her entrepreneurial savvy, working with some of the greatest minds at the Oxford Internet Institute. If that weren't enough, she's also the CEO of Technology & Marketing Ventures, Inc. and the CEO/Founder of Electronic Boardroom TMV® Solutions. She also has an MBA in marketing and finance, graduate degree in computer science and corporate governance certificates.
